Marcella Medor Named Idaho Business Reviews 50 Women of the Year Honorees

The Idaho Business Review announced this year's Fifty Women of the Year honorees, who come from all industries and professions — from banking to health care, hospitality, law, nonprofit, real estate and more. This selection committee reviewed 150 applicants and selected the 50 honorees based on four categories: professional achievement, leadership, mentorship, and community service.

MarCom President Marcella Medor was included in this year's honorees. Each year, the Idaho Business Review announces an overall top winner as the Woman of the Year who is unveiled at the awards gala which will be held September 30th at the Boise Centre. The 2021 awards will celebrate women who have made their mark and are paving the way for leaders of today and into the future.

Marcella Medor, MarCom's president, commented, "I am humbled to be include with such an amazing collection of women who represent the best Idaho has to offer with their leadership, achievement, and exemplary community service."
